EMPLOYMENT SECTOR SPOTLIGHT: EDUCATION & TRAINING

Wisconsin supports the next generation largely through the education and training sector. This industry offers several different career pathways for participants. Most people think of teachers as being the main career option in this sector, but that is far from the truth. Education and training offers pathways to administrative roles, counseling and supportive positions, as well as social work and linguistic roles. Salary ranges vary from $25,000 to $150,000. Some positions require very little education while others may require multiple degrees or certifications. If you are looking for variety but like a structured environment, then the education and training sector may be the right fit for you. E3 Works can help you find a position or training program to prepare for your new career. Let us help you find a career that works for you!

PROGRAM SERVICE OF THE MONTH: LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

E3 Works offers Leadership Development Opportunities as one of the available elements of service. The purpose of this element is to encourage the participant to take on new responsibilities to build confidence, practice life skills, explore potential careers, and even enrich their communities. Young people can try something new or pursue a personal interest. Either way, they will learn to be more prepared for the future in both their personal and professional lives.
